THE ELIZABETHAN II STUDY GROUP NEWSLETTER

Oct. 1992 VOL. I - NO. 2

COPIES MAILED 74

The format of the newsletter, as proposed in the first issue, seems to be acceptable. No one tore it apart and those that did comment seemed to feel it was an approach worth trying. One suggestion was to add a Section for cancellations. I understand this to be cancellations as the center of the collecting effort and not cancels as pertaining to a given issue. Fine - and this will be done just as soon as we have some suitable input.

Seventy four copies of No. 2 are being mailed. This is an increase of 19 over the first issue. Over half of the increase are new members that attended the Study Group Meeting at St. Charles. We will provide some statistics on the membership in the next issue.

The convention at St. Charles was excellent. There will be a full report in TOPICS and I will not try to cover the event. For me personally it was the best show I have attended this year. What U. S. show have you attended where there were 10 Canadian dealers (including two Auction houses) present? All were top notch dealers and 8 of the 10 were from Canada. I picked up a number of super items. The hi-light of the lot is shown in Sec. III.

Just a word on the exhibits: There were 19 exhibits filling 105 sixteen page (Ameripex) frames. I enjoyed each and every one but the only Elizabethan exhibit was mine - 3 frames of Caricature Booklets. I thought it was treated very fair with a silver bronze but the message here is we need to have more modern Canada exhibits in the frames at future shows - All shows and not just BNAPS conventions.

Some may have thought twice over the newsletter name - CORGI TIMES. During the convention, member Harry Machum gave me a picture post card, shown here, which explains all.

H. M. the Queen with her corgi, Shadow

Negotiations with our resident corgi - Rebecca Brickle (Becky) are proceeding. We hope to establish a local post operating from our desk to the mail box and, once working, we will substitute Becky in the masthead.

During the study group meeting in St. Charles a question was raised as to whether the first issue to come under the ESG was Scott No. 325 (QE II - Karsh portrait) or whether an earlier number was more appropriate. King George VI died on 6 February 1952. H. M. Queen Elizabeth became Queen on that date. The Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II was on 2 June 1953. Accordingly, it would seem stamps issued after 6 February 1952 would be properly classified as part of the Elizabethan II period. On this basis the first issue would be the 20¢ forestry products issue - Scott No. 316 issued on 1 April 1952.

St. Charles afforded an opportunity to spend some time with John Aitken, a charter member, and Editor of the Centennial Definitives Study Group. The Group held their first and by all accounts very successful study group mail auction this past year. John suggested that the Elizabethan II SG join in a joint mail auction during 1993. I indicated we would be pleased to participate, especially since John felt that John Traquair would be willing to coordinate the entire event. Full information will be included in an early issue including the latest thinking on proper procedure to avoid any GST border crossing incidents.

Earlier this month we attended the Pacific Northwest Regional Group meeting in Kelowna. Fellow ESG member Phillip Kohl and I had an opportunity to cover several subjects and avenues open to the study group. Together with other inputs some of these will surface in this and subsequent issues. Phillip has agreed to compile an index to the newsletter. When the time is right he will have the work already done.

Finally, three of our members have indicated or suggested a suitable project for the SG would be to undertake a specialized catalog covering the Elizabethan period. A first reaction is that this would be great. I for one would like to see an all inclusive specialized catalog listing, at a minimum, all constant varieties. Certainly, present catalogs fall very short in this area. But, stop for a moment and think about what all is involved in producing a catalog. Just for starters - the ground rules of what will be catalog listed and what will not. What type of identification or numbering system will be employed. We have at least three significant ones today - maybe more depending on who is counting. One more might well be one too many. There are a host of other considerations which need a lot of thought before venturing forth. Maybe we should take a page from some of the other study groups and go to time periods as opposed to undertaking the entire period. My initial reaction is that any effort along this line at this time would be premature. First and foremost we need to know what all exists. If we had this data on all issues then we would be in a position to consider undertaking such an effort. The presentation in Section V illustrates the scope of a catalog undertaking. The article identifies information a specialized catalog should contain. This is just one example of the scope of research required to undertake such a project. These are just your Editor's first reactions. Input from members on this subject is essential and would be very much appreciated.

SEC. I - STAMP PAPER & STAMP PRODUCTION

Your questions or comments answered by: Rick Penko, 321
Centennial Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada R3N 1P6.

Question: "I have been curious as to why some stamps especially the Caricatures sometimes have color toning on the paper. The enclosed cover has paper toning between the left hand two stamps, and on the second stamp from the right." J. C. Johnson, Calgary, Alberta

Ans: Color toning or tinting of the stamp paper is the result of ink not being properly removed from the non-image areas of the printing plate. In lithography, tinting will usually occur if there is a lack of water on the plate to keep the blank areas clean of ink. In the intaglio method, a worn doctor blade, or fine pitting of the non image area of the plate will cause tinting of the paper. The example the writer submitted shows 12 examples of Scott No. 605 (3 strips of 3, 1 pair, and 1 single) on cover with varying degrees of tinting. With these examples, it would appear that uneven plate wear could be responsible for the color toning of the background. It is interesting to note that the initial printing of #605 was full of tinting and streaks that the entire run was recalled and re-examined to remove the most badly printed rolls and re-released.

Paper Trails

The "Hickie" Phenomena

One of the most questioned and misunderstood flaws that occur in lithographic (litho) printing are what some call donuts, blisters, or splotches. These flaws in the printing trade are called hickies. These blemishes occur when a foreign piece of material lodges itself on the printing plate or blanket cylinder of a printing unit thus preventing the proper ink transfer to the paper. These foreign particles could result from loose paper fibers, dry pieces of ink, dirt dropping from the equipment, or any extraneous airborne objects. I mention the last one purely as to being a witness to a common housefly becoming caught between the plate and blanket cylinders, and becoming one of the most unique looking hickies I have ever seen.

The most common hickie is caused by ink skin (dried ink) from the press ink roller train. These fragments transfer themselves from the ink rollers to the plate producing the hickie. Tacky ink can also be a culprit. The ink "stickiness" can actually pull pieces off the surface of the paper. When this happens, the paper fragments will adhere themselves to the blanket cylinder or transfer to the plate cylinder preventing proper image transfer to the paper.

Despite all the precautions taken by paper mills, paper sometimes can have loose particles or paper dust on the sheet. The surface of the sheet unfortunately can be of an inferior quality and break up while being passed through the press.

The dot in the center of the hickie is actually the image of the foreign particle. The halo around the particle is the area where the ink rollers have not touched the printing plate because the speck is preventing the ink rollers from touching the plate. If the halo area is quite pronounced, this is usually a good indication that the foreign particle has lodged itself on the plate. If center area is larger than the halo, then this usually means that the fragment has found a home on the blanket cylinder.

Hickies are fairly easy to remove. They can be removed by hand or by having an inking roller (called a hickie picker) made from a bristle type of material remove any foreign objects on the plate while the press is still printing. Blanket hickies usually require them to be removed manually.

To give you an idea of the different printing methods and how the press cylinders are situated, these simplified diagrams should help.

The four principal printing processes.

SEC. IV - 1977 - 83 DEFINITIVES

My files are pretty skimpy on reference material for the 1977-83 Definitive Issues. These are the Flowers, Trees, Street Scenes & National Parks issues that followed the Caricatures and Landscapes. Material that I am aware of is listed below. Members are asked to add to this list and, if at all possible, to enclose a copy of the article or information on the source. Five of the six articles listed, as indicated, are in the files. Copies of all five articles are available. Please include two dollars to cover copying and mailing. One dollar if less than four are needed.

SEC. V - COMMEMORATIVES

Scott #857 and 858, a se-tenant pair, were issued on June 6, 1980 to mark the centenary of the first playing of "O Canada" and the official proclamation of "O Canada" as the national anthem. A miniature pane of 16 and one variety - a dot on moustache are also listed. Darnell adds that the dot on the moustache is a non-constant variety. That's it! Not so - read on for a fascinating story of the fun and challenge and eventual satisfaction provided by an intense study and pursuit of this issue.

"O CANADA" Miniature Pane

by: Harry Voss

"A day or two after the day of issue I purchased panes from a Sub-Post Office and noticed what looked like a smudge in the upper right hand corner selvage of the LR inscription panes. Using a glass I could make out letters of the inscription, and upon checking the other supposedly blank corners I found they also had partial letters of the inscription. Going to different Post Offices, some of the panes had these smudges or partial letters and others did not. It took a while plus a fairly large accumulation of panes to realize that the only panes with partial letters also had the dot in the moustache. Then the fun began in trying to find the sixteen positions as no dealers knew what I was asking for. It has taken ten years plus one day from the day of issue to find the sixteenth position."

Below is a summary of the research and the findings:

Printed by Ashton-Potter.

Six colour lithography: red, yellow, blue, green gray and black.

Perforated 12.4 x 12.4 1 row T comb.

Issued June 6, 1980.

Panes of sixteen stamps with inscription in one of the four corners.

One inscription, in the top or bottom margin appears on all panes.

A second inscription in the left or right margin appears on Philatelic stock only.

There are two levels of paper fluorescence on both Philatelic and field stock - dull and very light fluorescence.

The "O Canada" plate consists of sixteen panes arranged in eight rows and two columns - four panes with inscriptions in the UL, four LL, four UR, four LR

The proofs that were sent to the Post Office had inscription on all four corners. Noticing this the Post Office had Ashton-Potter burnish off three of the corners. This was done as the Post Office would only sell one pane instead of four panes to plate block collectors?!?

The burnishing was poorly done as BITS and PIECES of letters still remain in most of the corners.

A new black plate was soon made. Also the red and green plates.

The original printing - the burnished panes all have the following constant plate varieties (flaws):

On all eight composer stamps:

1. White dot in the mustache of the left most composer.
2. A small white dot on the right edge of the ear lobe near the bottom of the right most composer.

Stamp 4/3 of all of these panes have a small green dot in the top horizontal bar of the '7' of '17'.

None of these constant varieties are present on panes without the partial inscriptions. Therefore, later printings were made from new black, red and green plates.

Due to the scarcity of the left panes it appears they were broken up and used on official first day covers by the Post Office as all covers seen have the dot in the moustache. This is probably the only miniature pane for which the Post Office did not issue an official first day cover with the whole pane.

Shown here, in reduced size, is a copy of Pane TYPE 3 LR. The position of the burnished remainders, visible only with the aid of a glass, are shown.

Page 22, if folded exactly in the center, provides a sleeve to be used as an aid to study the following four pages (23 thru 26) which provide an accurate lay out of the black inscription present on each of the 16 burnished panes.

SEC. VIII - ALL OTHER - POSTAGE DUE

Scott # J16B - three cent postage due issued in 1965

This stamp is missing part of the "secret date". The "6" and "5" are missing from the value tablet on the right hand side. The "1" and "9" are shown as normal in the value tablet on the left hand side. The result is a "half secret date". Are there other similar missing dates in the postage dues or other issues other than those that were intentionally omitted?

(Note: the "red" postage dues do not have "secret dates".)

Reported by: Bill Pekonen

"RED" POSTAGE DUES

The fourth series of the "red" dues were released in 1977-8. They measure 20mm x 15.75mm - the same as the third series. Mint sheets may be separated easily by the location of the Imprint. Single and used copies may be identified by the perforations. The fourth series is Perf. 12 1/2 x 12 whereas all earlier series were Perf. 12 x 12. Shown is a late use Postage Due Receipt canceled at Carleton Place, Ontario on 12 III 1982. All three stamps are from the fourth series.
